Redevelopment fears addressed at calm session

PLEASANTON — Opponents to Pleasanton's redevelopment plan were restrained at Monday night's hearing and several citizens even spoke in favor of that controversial proposal.

More than 200 people attended the three-hour session before the city council also sitting as the Pleasanton Rdevelopment Agency.

Members of the city staff and Joe Coomes, a specialist in redevelopment law, presented background information on redevelopment plans in general and on Pleasanton's plan in particular and citizens were encouraged to present their views.

Prior to the start of the hearing, however, Mayor Ed Kinney reminded the audience no decision on adoption of the plan would be made until Nov. 10. He also said that, during the next three months, the staff and members of the council will be attending neighborhood informational sessions, and citizens with particular neighborhood concerns were urged to present their views then.

PRA Director Bill Edgar told the audience the rationale for redevelopment in Pleasanton is "quite succinctly, needed public improvements are not fundable at present" because there is no way for the city to raise the estimated $60 million for those projects."

It is estimated some $27 million could be raised by the PRA during its 20-year life, which would go a long way towards financing those needed street extensions and other public projects within the project area.

John Bowling, deputy director of the agency, cited several areas that the city is proposing to delete from the project area, including that property bounded by First Street, the Arroyo Del Valle, Adams Way and Kottinger Avenue; a section of Pleasanton Heights southwest of Angela Street and the eight houses along Stonedale Drive.

City Finance Director Jim Walker also reviewed the agency's impact on other taxing jurisdictions and said that, over the 20 years the agency is expected to be in existence, that impact would amount to slightly more than one-half of one percent of those agencies' assessed valuation.

Ben Fernandez, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Ray Young, prominent downtown developer; and Chris Beratlis, a realtor and former councilman, were the three who voiced support for the proposal.

Fernandez reaffirmed the chamber's support for the agency and said the tax increment financing "provides the most logical means of providing funds" for needed projects.

Fernandez added, "It would be better to divert the added tax dollars to our community" rather than have them spread among outside taxing jurisdictions. "The only alternative" to redevelopment, Fernandez said, "is more physical decay than the word 'blight' could ever imply."

Young chastized the staff for not clarifying the "real impact of tax impact financing and what happens if there is no PRA." He added, however, he supported the plan and, while he admitted it was a gamble, he said, "I think it's worth the gamble."

Young also noted that only 13 per cent of his tax bill is returned to the city and he said, "I'd like to see part of that (the remainder) come back to the city." (That would occur with tax increment financing.)

Beratlis characterized the redevelopment plan as "Pleasanton's salvation" and added, "There is no way in hell you are going to raise that money privately."

Beratlis also commented on a fear that has been expressed by many opponents to the plan, that their property would be devalued and yet, their taxes would go up. "I have never seen improvements devalue a property," Beratlis said. "It has always been the opposite."

Bernie Gerton, former mayor and chairman of Citizens Against Re-Development (CARD), was the spokesman for the opposition forces. He presented a petition containing 572 names to the council which asked the city to delay a decision. Gerton praised the council for deciding to delay making a decision even before the petition was presented.

Gerton reviewed the varied reasons for opposition to the plan, saying some citizens have a "fear of being displaced", with or without compensation, and others are "philosophically opposed to government engaging in redevelopment work."

Gerton continued, "Some are satisfied with downtown as it is and others don't think redevelopment will live up to its promises." And there are those, he added, who think the whole concept of redevelopment "is a subterfuge for something else."

The schedule of neighborhood meetings planned for the next three months has not yet been determined.

Santa Rita, Amador improvements

A portion of Santa Rita Road and the Amador Valley High School property are undergoing improvements that will create better traffic flow and pedestrian movement. The bulldozer is clearing away the last remnants of what once was a small cottage on the high school property. The area will become a student and visitors parking lot. The 120 foot strip along Santa Rita, between the high school and Black Avenue, is being improved to include curb, gutter and sidewalk, widening of Santa Rita from 32 to 42 feet, undergrounding of electrical lines, and storm drains, placing of two fire hydrants and four electroliers. The project is scheduled to be completed two weeks from now. The southwest corner parcel at Santa Rita and Black will be the site of a new Pleasanton Post Office.

Teachers lose bid

Vice principals will stay

PLEASANTON— The teaching vice principal positions at six Pleasanton Elementary School District schools will be retained for the 1975-76 school year.

Carl Krause, Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Services, said Tuesday he will huddle with teachers involved in September or October and "look carefully at developing a job description for the teaching vice principal position in line with the needs of each school."

The decision is in direct opposition to an Amador Valley Teachers Association meet and confer proposal of last April calling for abolition of all teaching vice-principal positions and returning those affected to the classroom.

The AVTA proposal added, "They shall not be made into full vice-principals. Instead, the following schedule shall be observed in the assignment of site area administrators unless negotiated with the Certificated Employees Council (CEC); K-5 schools, 200 or less students, equivalent of a half-time administrator; 200 to 800 students, 1 full-time administrator; 800 to 1,200 students, equivalent of one-and-a-half administrators.

Middle schools, less than 500 students, 1 full-time equivalent administrator; 500 to 1,500 students, two administrators.

Those persons who serve as teaching vice principals are considered members of the administrative-leadership team. The latter reportedly was brought into being during Rudy Gatti's tenure as superintendent. They are on the administrative and specialists salary schedule and are not represented by the CEC.

Additionally, they were not permitted to hold membership in AVTA during the past year.

The teaching vice principal slot was created to handle the burgeoning paperwork and administrative duties that principals at district schools were encountering from week to week.

While their were six TVPs at six district schools last year, the duties of each varied. Some reportedly spent more time on administration matters than teaching while the opposite proved to be true in other cases.

Parents in the Vintage Hills area have pushed for a full-time on-site administrator. Phyllis Clark served as teaching vice-principal at the newest district school last year and will return in that capacity this fall.The principalship is held down by John Bristow, who is also the administrator at Valley View and works out of the latter school.

Krause said Tuesday that he expects the same persons to fill the TVP positions in 1975-76 as held them last year. That would include, besides Mrs. Clark, Hurshell Culley, Valley View; Ron Dell'Immagine, Pleasanton; Kay Bolles, Fairlands; Del Warren, Alisal; Tom Ingham, Walnut Grove.

Harvest Park, though having grades five through eight, has a vice principal (Robert Tanghe) but no teaching vice principal.

The TVP position has been a continuing source of concern among district teachers. While hopeful that it can serve as a "training grounds" for full-time administration, some teachers have supposedly expressed reservations about the value of the position as opposed having the same people in the classroom full-time.

The thinking on the latter score is that a return of TVPs to the classroom will lessen the class size of all teachers.

Investigation delays Spiliotopoulos case

LIVERMORE — Attorney John Corley appeared briefly in municipal court here, Tuesday, but the case against his client, Alameda County Planning Commissioner George Spiliotopoulos, was continued pending completion of an investigation by sheriff Tom Houchins and deputy district attorney Harry Murphy.

Spiliotopoulos was arrested at the Santa Rita jail following an altercation with sheriff's deputies. Deputies claim the former Pleasanton City Councilman and Mayor pro Tem "resisted arrest," while Spiliotopoulos charges he was beaten by deputies.

He was brought to the county facility following his arrest by the California Highway Patrol in Castro Valley for alleged reckless driving. He is scheduled to appear on that charge in Hayward Municipal Court at 9:30 a.m., Thursday.

Sheriff Houchins has taken "personal authority" in the investigation of the Santa Rita charges and has declined comment until it is completed.

He and Murphy have said only that they are interviewing all parties present in the booking station at the time of the incident, including inmates.

Murphy has said that they were having trouble locating some of the inmates who were later released.

Sewer fee issue

City loses $30,000 case

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The City of Pleasanton lost a $30,000 difference of opinion Tuesday when Alameda County Supperior Court Judge Robert Kroninger ruled the city must refund that amount to Morrison Homes.

The judge, however, dismissed the contempt of court proceedings Morrison had instituted against the city because of what the developer considered to be excessive sewer connection fees.

The dispute arose over what sewer connection fee Morrison should be charged for each of its 79 lots. In June of last year, Judge Kroninger ruled that the city must pay a per diem charge for those 79 lots until there was sufficient sewer capacity to connect them.

That capacity is now available but the connection fee had been increased from $735 to $975 between the time Morrison took the city to court and June 11, 1974, when Judge Kroninger issued his final order.

The total fee for Morrison would be $67,940 under the original charge and $98,750 with the increase.

Thus, Morrison initiated the contempt proceedings and Judge Kroninger ruled Tuesday that, while the item was not really a contemptible offense because "there was no willful intention to defy the judgement," he ruled the extra $30,420 must be refunded to Morrison.

The judge did admit he had not been aware of the increase in the city's sewer connection fee but he added, "It would be absurd for me to use thp term 'increased connection fee' without a definite sum in mind."

The sum he had in mind, he said Tuesday, was the $735 connection fee and $125 sewer surcharge.

"The issue here today," he added, "is not law or procedure but of interpretation of the term 'increased connection fee'."

The judge continued the matter until Aug. 19 but that hearing will only take place if the money has not been refunded to Morrison.

City Attorney Ken Scheidig indicated a check would be in the mail to the developer by the end of the week.

Romano's Sunol appeal denied

Alameda County Bureau

Tony Romano's request to reopen the civil trial that resulted in his loss of the Sunol Valley Golf Course lease was denied yesterday in Oakland by Alameda County Superior Court Justice Robert Bostick.

Romano's attorney, Jerry Luxenberg of Orlando, Fla., claimed that the suit should be re-examined for three reasons:

√ The limited partners never signed the lease over to Romano, so legally Romano had no lease;

√ Romano was assured by John Crowley that he would be credited with $140,000, which did not occur;

√ That Mayor Joseph Alioto's testimony before the grand jury differed from his testimony before the civil suit jury.

San Francisco City Attorney Rene Choteau stated that two of those items had been considered at the previous trial and that the differences in Alioto's testimony were not large enough to warrant reopening a trial.

Bostick said that Luxenberg "had a duty to demonstrate that inconsistencies exist" between the two trials of sufficient importance to have affected the verdict.

"I don't believe that burden has been met" said Bostick, and denied Romano's appeal.

Pleasanton building in two month surge

PLEASANTON — The second half of a two-month building boom arrived in July as expected with 251 single family home starts recorded by the city's building inspectors. Added to the 205 home starts in June, the 60-day total marks the biggest construction surge in Pleasanton in over two years.

The July total also includes the first multiple family project in the city since 1973. Twenty two backyard pools completed the building report for July.

The construction surge came with sewer connections made available to the city on a one-time basis. Once these utility connections are used up, it may be quite some time before there is another residential building boom.

The July report brings to 548 the number of single family home starts in 1975. There have been two commercial and no industrial starts this year.

Men (?) working

There may indeed be men working but, as Judi Green of Livermore, demonstrates the East Bay Regional Park District's construction warning signs are sadly out of touch with the times. Judi, a 16-year-old Granada High School student, is employed as a concession attendant and maintenance worker for EBRPD this summer and, despite the sign, she is indeed working. ## EBRPD plans unveiled

Quiet kickoff for new regional park in Pleasanton

PLEASANTON — Directors of the East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD) yesterday unanimously approved plans to build an access road and improve a 457-acre park inside Camp Parks.

The $1.4 million park, located just off Tassajara Road 400 feet south of the Contra Costa County Line, would be the fifth valley park in the EBRPD chain.

The only access to the near-treeless land is by foot, "with visitors parking on the shoulder of the two-lane Tassajara Road, scaling a barbed whre fence and then negotiating the banks of Tassajara Creek at a point which is heavily wooded," a staff report said.

Tentative plans call for a road to be built on the western tip of the triangular-shaped area. Directors indicated that another route was being considered, and negotiations with a property owner in the area were taking place.

They refused to discuss where the alternate route was being planned or to what stage negotiations had progressed.

"It will be a number of months before an evaluation can be made" of an alternate access road, a spokesman said.

The only existing development in the project site is an 11.2-acre satellite tracking station operated by Lockheed for the U.S. Air Force. A road leads to the building.

Water is not currently available, nor are toilet facilities. A 200-foot well serves personnel at the tracking station.

A former military-owned land bank turned over to EBRPD in 1972, wildlife consists of rodents, raccoons, skunks, weasels, and deer. Small trout appear in Tassajara Creek.

Most of the land is covered with dry grass mowed for hay. A few eucalyptus trees provide shade for cattle, and several willow and oak trees line the creek.

Directors intend only to improve the park to the extent of providing public access. "The park would be excellent for walking, kite-flying, grass-sliding and general sight-seeing," the spokesman said.

Under consideration is whether to allow 70-80 acres to be set aside for an outside museum of about 30 old-time steam locomotives. Presently located at Pt. Castro in Richmond, EBRPD directors were considering the esthetic impact of the train cars to a park of this type.

When the question was put to the audience at yesterday's public hearing, no one rose to speak either in its defense or against its creation.

Lila Euler, president of the Valley Community Services District Board of Trustees, commented that the park would be welcomed in the shape EBRPD directors had planned. "I don't think people in this valley expected it to be developed more than you have proposed," she said.

Gates, signs, drinking water, chemical toilets and a graveled parking area would be provided at a cost of $20,000, an EBRPD spokesman said.

Following the slide show and lighted projection display of facts and figures relating to the proposed improvements, directors asked for public input into the project. Again the room remained silent.

The directors unanimously accepted the resolution to forward plans to the U.S. Dept. of Interior's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and directed the staff to prepare an environmental impact report.

In other action, the directors approved a resolution of appreciation to the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary Patrol for patrolling Del Valle Regional Park. The resolution included a provision to reimburse auxiliary members up to $350 a year, since they were traveling to the area at their own expense.

Supervisors contemplate plans

Jails, courts to cost $45 million

Alameda County Bureau

The proposed pre-trial detention centers in Oakland and Hayward and a new Oakland-Piedmont Municipal Court building will cost Alameda County taxpayers over $45 million, the architects revealed yesterday in Oakland.

Patrick Leamy, the project director for Helmuth, Obata and Kassabaum/Kaiser Engineers, presented a four part report to the supervisors on the controversial pre-trial detention centers, with cost estimates ranging from $45.8 million to $51.1 million.

The differing costs result from the controversy surrounding the Hayward Pre-Trial Detention Center. Hayward citizens are upset about the location and size of the center, claiming that it does not belong in a residential area.

Sheriff's department estimates indicate that a total capacity between Hayward and Oakland of approximately 1,075 prisoners be maintained. The Oakland center is planned for a capacity of 575, but Supervisors Tom Bates and Charles Santana question the need for a 500 bed Hayward facility.

Bates feels a 300 bed jail will be sufficient, as does Santana, and some fire has been drawn over the plan to construct the center in one tall tower.

Leamy reported that a single tower, 300 bed jail would be approximately 90 feet high, just a few feet taller than the neighboring Hayward Justic Court now under construction. Five hundred beds would require 135 feet in a single tower, while a two wing affair would reach a maximum height of 75 feet.

Leamy pointed out that a two-wing facility would cost more and take up more space than a single tower.

There is about $900,000 in cost differential between one and two wing jails of a similar size.

There is about a $500,000 difference between a 300 bed and a 500 bed facility.

A pre-trial detention center is for prisoners who have yet to be tried (and in most cases are thus presumed to be innocent). Presently, pre-trial prisoners are held at Santa Rita and must be rigidly separated from sentenced prisoners.

This means that security on pre-trial prisoners — those who have not been tried or convicted — is sometimes tougher than on sentenced inmates.

The cost estimates include a series of tunnels and bridges to connect the Hayward jail and court and the Oakland jail and court for easy transport of prisoners.

The architects hope that a prisoner in Hayward can be fed, exercised, arraigned and tried without being transported at all.

The prisoners will be housed in single occupancy cells and have all services — food, recreation, counseling — brought to their floor.

The cost per bed of the new jails will be approximately $33,000.

Trail bike park funds in budget

So you have a new trail bike and nowhere to ride it.

And you know they're collecting road taxes with the promise that the money will go toward developing recreational areas where you can roar around.

Gripe no longer! The East Bay Regional Park District has $800,000 in this year's budget for just such a park.

Unfortunately, they have nowhere to locate the park, at least at present. But at least they have the money.

Matching state funds could provide EBRPD with some $3.2 million for the "Off Road Vehicle" site.

Under consideration is a 1,900-acre spread at Doolan Canyon, north of Interstate 580 and Livermore Airport. Not only cycles and trail bikes, but model planes and cars, and other motorized recreational equipment, might be used at the park.

However, some cyclists have expressed dissatisfaction with Doolan Canyon.

EBRPD general manager Richard Trudeau recently told Park District directors, "We, of course, expect that we will have a site during the coming year and that our $800,000 can be used as the Proper matching funds for a site."

Santa Rita escapee in Vegas jail

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Luck deserted 23-year-old Curtricia Miles, Monday, when the Santa Rita jail escapee was captured here following a weekend police stakeout.

Miles used kitchen utensils to pry loose dormitory floorboards at the Alameda County facility last month while awaiting sentencing on her conviction in the Oakland murder of Geraldine Bonnifield, a massage parlor employe.

She was arrested here July 27 after arguing with a cab driver over her fare, and charged with possession of a minor amount of marijuana. Using an alias she was released before positive identification was made.

She first found fame two years ago when, as a bank teller, she helped her husband rob the bank — he chose her window.

While on parole she hitched a ride one night with 19-year-old Bonnifield and her sister, dumped the sister in a parking lot and killed Geraldine.

Miles is fighting extradition to California. She has not been charged in Nevada.

She was picked up a few blocks from the site of her first arrest outside her known favorite gambling house — the Lucky Lady Casino.

A 'citizens' arrest

Wild ride ends in jail

OAKLAND — A 22-year-old Livermore man is listed by Highland Hospital as "improving" Tuesday following a bizzare chase through Hayward that ended with his arrest on six counts of hit-and-run driving, burglary, assault and a series of drug charges.

Johnny Paul Wasson was arrested after a San Lorenzo man, William Deetz, 29, followed Wasson's van as it wove erratically through Hayward. Deetz and his wife tossed cigarette packs along the route with the van's license number and instructions to call police.

In a 25-minute span around 3 p.m. police allege Wasson's van hit six parked vehicles causing damage pegged at moderate to major.

Deetz followed Wasson to an apartment building on Tampa Avenue where the Livermore man reportedly walked in the back door of an apartment and out the front.

Police arrived as the five-foot, nine-inch Deetz came sailing backwards from a blast by the six-foot, two-inch Wasson.

Deetz held on long enough for patrolmen to mace and arrest Wasson.

Wasson was later found unconscious in a Hayward jail cell and rushed to Fairmont Hospital suffering from a suspected drug overdose. He was later transferred to Highland Hospital.

The van allegedly was stolen from Dublin and the license plates from Danville.

Police claim they found drugs and syringes apparently taken from a Danville doctor's office.

Damage from the six accidents is listed at $4,800.

Valley students on honors list

Three valley students were named to the President's List for the spring quarter at California Polytechnic State Univerisity at San Luis Obispo.

Elizabeth M. Kienzle of 450 Brighton Way in Livermore, Jo Anne Bird of 1455 Parkview Ct. and Sharon Lee Fowler of 5791 San Juan Way of Pleasanton were listed in the top 15 per cent of all students carrying 12 or more units.

A Bicentennial tour from old Mexico

They'll follow the path of DeAnza to California

DUBLIN — Two local couples will be in Mexico City this week to help kick off a bicentennial re-enactment of the DeAnza Expedition.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin and Mr. and Mrs. Nat Piazza, all of Dublin, will be part of a delegation from the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission to Mexico. Also going to Mexico are Mary Patino of San Lorenzo and Betty Moodie of Hayward — the only delegates whose expenses are being paid by the county commission — and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Fields of Hayward.

The group were scheduled to head out of the Bay Area this morning, changing planes in Los Angeles and then flying direct to Mexico City.

Ceremonies start tomorrow with a cocktail party at the Mexican consulate, to be attended by the Honorable Luis Echeverria, Mexico's president, and other dignitaries.

Mrs. Patino, a native of Mexico, will speak for the Alameda County Bicentennial Commission. Bearing such gifts as Bicentennial pins, typical products of Alameda County and a resolution from the County Supervisors, she'll offer greetings and will officially welcome expedition members to the county, which they will pass through on the last leg of their months-long expedition re-enactment.

The two county delegates will return home Monday, while the three couples who are going along at their own expense will linger in Mexico until the end of the week to take in the sights.

All the fanfare is over a huge undertaking: the re-enactment of the journeys of an expeditionary force of 240 men, women and children who journeyed from the northern provinces of Mexico over 1600 miles of rugged deserts and mountains to open the first land route to California.

The expedition led by Colonel Juan Bautista DeAnza is of special importance to Alameda County because many of the explorers remained to participate in establishing the communities of Livermore, San Leandro, Oakland, Hayward and San Lorenzo as well as Mission San Jose. As a result, cultural, ethnic, religious and economic ties between the county and Mexico have been very close during the two centuries which have followed.

In the County Supervisors' resolution, the DeAnza Expedition is referred to as "a remarkable record, never excelled — perhaps never equaled — in the history of the pioneer treks of peoples to the Pacific Coast."

On Friday, the 1975 version of the 1775 expedition will get underway from Mexico City's George Washington Monument.

That will be followed by a "jaripero" or Mexican rodeo and a barbecue at the rancho of Dr. Juan Ignacio Rodriguez, a participant in the modern-day trek who will arrive in Alameda County with the expedition in April, 1976.

The local delegates have been invited to the celebrations hosted by Rodriguez.

Saturday will be devoted to more parading through the city to Chapultepec Park. Local representatives will be mounted on horses as they ride from the Zocala to the park.

On horseback, the expedition members will head north from there. Each participant will represent a particular person who went on the original trip. Over the months to follow, most of the participants will return home to be relieved by others.

As they proceed through Mexico, they will be escorted and hosted by the "charro" group in each town. They expect to make only four or five miles a day.

A highlight of interest to Valley residents will be the Oct. 26 re-enactment in Tucson, Arizona, of the wedding of the paternal grandparents of Josefa Higuera Livermore, wife of Robert Livermore. There are many direct descendants of Robert and Josefa Livermore still living in Livermore, and some are expected to be attending the October wedding re-enactment.

A Spanish-style fiesta, along with historical discussions, will highlight the unusual ceremony at Mission San Xavier del Bac.

Making their way up the state, the DeAnza party is expected to reach the Alameda County border at Agnew, near San Jose, about March 30.

They will be greeted by the Alameda County committee at Warm Springs. The expedition is scheduled to march through Alameda County from March 30 to April 6.

It will be one of the last stages of their long journey, which will end in San Francisco with commemoration of the founding of the Mission St. Francis. — by Pat Kennedy

Chabot enrollment jumps

A total of 604 students registereed for Chabot College's summer session at Granada High School, an increase of 114.1 per cent over the turnout of a year ago.

Chabot's total enrollment in all its summer session classes is 7,071, reflecting an overall 28.3 per cent increase.

The breakdown includes 2,976 day students, up 44.9 per cent; 2,894 evening students, a 1.7 per cent increase, and 587 Saturday students, an increase of 81.1 per cent.

Course enrollments totaled 8,546 last year, compared with 11,162 this year for a 30.6 per cent increase.

Coal gasification under scrutiny

The Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) has awarded an $871,500 contract to Systems, Science and Software of La Jolla to do research on fluidized beds and reactors for coal gasification.

The Lawrence Livermore Laboratory is working on in *situ coal*gasification — a method of turning coal into gas underground and then piping the gas directly to consumers.

Systems, Science and Software will work on low-BTU fluidized-bed gasification, entrained-flow reactors and fluidized-bed combustion.

It is hoped a computer model of coal gasification can be developed to aid in research on the development of low-grade western coals for power.

'Bedroom tax' for schools

SRV developers charge 'double taxation'

By CATHY TALLYN
Times Staff Writer

DANVILLE — A school district bedroom tax is nothing but "double taxation" enacted by those who don't want to pay their fair share.

So claim developers who have yet to comply with the San Ramon Valley Unified School District's controversial "developers policy."

The policy stipulates that developers help pay the costs of new classrooms for the new students from their homes.

A study by district facilities planning director Tony Freitas shows only seven developers for 51 developments have indicated they will comply with the policy.

But, as one of those seven developers said, "The proof of the pudding is payment."

Freitas said in his report, "We (are) a growing district while other districts (have) declining enrollment and that is why the developer's policy (is) a necessity."

He added that since the county planning commission last month upheld this contention he thinks "the developers of all future developments will have to comply with the developer's policy before approval will be granted by the county planning commission."

Jack Chapman of Leadership Homes of Northern California in Lafayette said, "We've given some oral acknowledgement. It (the policy) is there and that we'll have to contend with it."

But Chapman said the company hasn't written a check to the district.

Leadership Homes is involved in the Country View project off Crow Canyon Road, which could consist of 250 to 350 homes, he said.

It's now in the preliminary development stage.

"We think the policy isn't in the best interest of the buyer .... It increases the price of homes," Chapman said.

"We try and make as many homes available as possible," he added.

He complained that those who buy the homes also will pay a property tax and "the school district always gets a large portion of it.

"We feel it's double taxation (to charge a fee for each bedroom afterthe firstand impose a property tax, too)," he said.

The tax is just another cost tacked onto the price of a home, Chapmansaid.

Fran Bryan of Bryan and Murphy Associates of Walnut Creek said he's been involved in developments in not only Contra Costa County but Solano and Alameda counties and he's never had to contend with such a policy before.

His compnay is working on the Danville Villas and Sunrise Country Club.

New homes: Will they help schools?

The Danville Villas will have 161 homes and the Sunrise Country Club, located across from Country View, 1,028.

"Obviously the developers aren't going to pay — it's the people who buy the homes who are going to pay the tariff.

"They're also going to join the district and pay property taxes," Bryan said.

He complained there was an imbalance in the policy.

"They don't seem to pay any attention to the smaller subdivisions.

"If there are four homes each in 10 subdivisions that adds up to 40 units in minor subdivisions," Bryan said.

Bryan said he and other developers are also bothered that residents of the school district aren't willing to pay for classrooms for their own children.

"Three times they've tried to pass bond issues to build schools and failed.

"This last bond issue, a lease - purchase arrangement, won't really add schools," he explained.

Bryan also argued that the Sunrise Country Club is geared to older people who don't have that many children to swell the schools.

"There are a lot of leisure facilities and some areas will be restricted age - wise ....

"It will be kind of like Rossmoor where they'll pay the school taxes but won't have any kids."

The Sunrise Country Club will go before the county planning commission Sept. 2 for final approval of its development map.

The Danville Villas's preliminary development plan is now being revised and no date has been set for it to go before the county.

Pleasanton signs firefighters contract

PLEASANTON — The city council signed a 23-month wage contract with Pleasanton Local 1974 of the International Association of Firefighters Monday night.

The contract, which was made retroactive to Aug. 1, 1975, will provide the 24 members of the firefighters' union with a total increase of 17.93 percent over the 23 months.

During the first year, the firefighters will receive a 9.63 percent salary increase, with a .75 percent hike in fringe benefits, for a total of a 10.7 percent increase.

During the second 11 months of the contract, the firefighters will receive a 7.50 percent salary hike and a .32 percent increase in fringe benefits, for a total increase of 7.82 percent.

The wage pact was for 23 months rather than two years to bring its expiration date into line with the June 30, 1977 expiration date of the Pleasanton City Employees Association contract.

The firemen's previous contract expired July 31 and the firefighters worked without a contract while negotiations proceded until Aug. 7 when they signed a memorandum of understanding with the city.

That memorandum of understanding was a prelude to the signing of the contract Monday night.

As a part of the negotiations, the city agreed to make the new contract retroactive to the expiration of the previous pact.

More gravel pits mean more trucks

The announced plan by Cal Rock and Lone Star companies to dig up another large plot of Stanley Boulevard soil in that never-ending quest for sand and gravel means a long extension on this valley's relationship with the extraction industry.

But this is one extension that should not, must not be tolerated until we have first resovlved the problem of getting those gravel trucks off of city streets.

The cities of Pleasanton and Livermore recognized this challenge some years ago, and it was largely because of local intervention that the state was convinced to build an interchange at I-580 and Del Charro Road. The idea then was "to provide direct access from the gravel pits to the freeway." It worked for two of the valley's firms — Kaiser and Rhodes-Jamieson; it has never even been offered to Lone Star and Cal Rock, in part, we are informed, because Rhodes-Jamieson controls the only (private) access road to that interchange, and the firm isn't about to allow a major competitor like Lone Star freeway access through the R-J property.

The real stumbling block is the County of Alameda County. Full access via a public street to that Del Charro interchange can only come about after the county has kept its half of the bargain ... development of a link from Stanley Boulevard to I-580. For some ten years we have been getting a great deal of conversation on that subject, but absolutely no action ... except when the county generously allowed the Kaiser-RJ combo to build their private road through county land, to reach the state interchange that has now become the private property for those two firms.

If we are ever going to force public use of that important freeway link — specificially all the gravel extractors and the heavy visitor flow into Shadow Cliffs Park — then that action will have to come when there is critical need from one or more gravel firms for that road. That critical point is faced this month by Cal Rock and Lone Star. If they win permission to expand their Stanley Boulevard diggings without also providing direct access to I-580 via Del Charro interchange, then this valley's leadership is even more bankrupt than we thought.

Here is one issue on which the three local governing bodies — speaking perhaps through the Congress of Valley Agencies — can solidly agree.

Gravel trucks do not belong on city streets when freeways are nearby and access to that system is available. The home owners and business people who watch that noisy, dusty caravan of trucks flow by their door each day should mount their own protest. Let's get it together, folks. Here is one petition that should set records for speed and response.

Every body needs PE

Three school districts in the valley are gearing up to review the implications of Senate Bill 16, the physical education as an elective bill, and to implement it in the coming year.

The bill concerns junior and senior students and all sophomores over the age of 16 at six valley schools — Livermore, Granada, Foothill, Amador, Dublin and California in San Ramon.

A committee is in the process of being organized in the Amador Valley Joint High School District to explore the issue and initial meetings will be held in September.

Basically, the bill makes taking of physical education optional for certain students, including those in special programs such as Regional Occupational Program and part-timers.

Under existing law, pupils enrolled in public schools are required to attend P.E. courses, unless otherwise excused or exempted. However, school district governing boards are authorized to grant temporary exemptions to students who are, 1) ill or injured, and 2) enrolled for one-half, or less, of the work normally required of full-time students; and such boards are authorized to grant permanent exemptions to pupils who, 1) have reached their 18th birthday, or 2) are enrolled as postgraduate students.

The bill, which becomes effective January 1, 1976, requires governing boards of school districts to offer elective physical education courses to students in grades 11 and 12 who are exempted from required physical education courses.

The bill amends a section of the Education Code to read: All pupils, except those excused or exempted pursuant to another section (8702), shall be required to attend upon the courses of physical education for a total period of time of not less than 400 minutes each 10 school days. Any pupil may be excused from P.E. classes during one of grades 10, 11 or 12 for not to exceed 24 clock hours in order to participate in automobile driver training. Such a pupil who is excused from physical education classes to enroll in driver training shall attend upon a minimum of 7,000 minutes of P.E. instruction during such school year.

The governing board of each district maintaining a high school shall offer full elective physical education courses of not less than 400 minutes each 10 school days in grades 11 and 12 for those pupils exempted from required participation in P.E. courses under paragraph 1 of Section 8702.

Section 8702 is amended to read, the governing board of any school district may grant temporary exemption to a pupil from courses in P.E. if he or she is, 1) ill or injured where a modified program to meet the needs of the pupil can be provided, 2) enrolled for one-half, or less of the work normally required of full-time pupils.

The governing board may grant permanent exemption from courses in P.E. if the pupil has, 1) completed the 10th grade, 2) is 16 years of age or older and has not completed the 10th grade, but has special circumstances which, in the board's determination, warrant such an exemption, or 3) is enrolled as a postgraduate pupil.

That is it in its entirety.

Just how much strength a district wants to put on elective will depend on each board's analysis of the bill and implementation thereof.

My first impression is that it's ironic to have driver education juxtaposed with physical education with the former seeming to take precedence.

If there's one thing this world can do without its the "wheels" syndrome, which leads many 14 to 17 year-olds to a state of unbalanced hysteria ... in their striving to get behind a steering wheel.

It is too bad this hell-bent enthusiasm isn't properly channelled into a systematic program of exercise. A sound and toned mind and body should get at least equal emphasis with the study of the sciences and arts.

This writer believes that the trustees of the respective school districts in the valley should give strong consideration to a program of physical education for ALL, excluding ill or injured and those enrolled less than half-time.

Furthermore, the exercise, team or individual play, should be AT LEAST one or two hours per week.

The only excused parties, beside those mentioned, should be those participating full-time in a varsity sport ... and then only during the season of play.

At the same time, we hope that those district committees reviewing the legislation will also look into making the varsity-junior varsity team program less structured, open to more students and with greater emphasis on the life-time sports ... tennis, swimming, golf.

We get the impression at times that some coaches are more concerned with developing a few "blue chip" athletes for the big league colleges ... the middle part of the athletic tunnel from high school to pros.

I'd much rather see EVERY student given the option of taking part in some basic class of physical activity and-or going out for a sport that offers ALL the chance to participate and excell.

Santa Rita ordeal

Editor, The Times:

I also read with great interest "George Spiliotopoulos' Santa Rita Ordeal." I would like to answer E.J. Hubacher's letter. You insinuate, Mr. Hubacher, that the mistreatment of Mr. Spiliotopoulos was justified since he started the evening by playing Liars Dice and the proceeding to get a traffic violation. What kind of treatment would an arrest for hitch hiking, drug possession, or petty theft warrant? Prisoners who are accused of crimes (and those convicted) are still ppople. Most of the people at Santa Rita are awaiting trial or relocation to another facility. Incarceration is punishment enough without unregulated, illegal abuse.

You suggested that if Mr. Spiliotopoulos had been thinking straight he would have sumised that seeking medical help is just a common ploy. George was thinking straight when he requested medical care for the young man. No one is in a position to determine if any one is in need of medical attention except a physician. What does one need to do in order to get medical attention? Five years ago my cousin, who had been denied for over a month the tranquilizers that had help stabilize him for several years, screamed continually in solitary at Santa Rita for 24 hours until he hung himself. Was this just a common ploy to attract attention? Was this justifiable punishment for petty theft?

I don't think you are sorry, Mr. Hubacher, that George Spiliotopoulos had a bad night. You seem to think that since he's responsible for the actions that had him placed in jail, he has to endure the whims of the Santa Rita personnel. There must be some humane people on the staff but there are too many incidents, too many eyewitness accounts, too many deaths to think that Mr. Spiliotopoulos ordeal is "fishy" and exaggerated.

George Spiliotopoulos is no longer a prisoner and I hope his position will help convince people that the numerous complaints against the guards at Santa Rita are not just fabrications of the ethnic minorities, the young and the poor that have experienced "justice" at Santa Rita.

"Wheat squeezings"

Editor, The Times:

I have to wonder when a reasonably intelligent man can sit in a bar for several hours and partake of one of the most proven drugs of our time — however small — and then attempt to drive home, can he not expect some punishment.

Do people continually ignore the statistics of how lethal alcohol is to the body and brain — even taken in small amounts — that we can glamorize it and laugh at it while it becomes the nations number one drug and number three health problem. It makes me mad when our insurance rates are sky high because drunk drivers cause over ½ our accidents and auto deaths, but County Planning Commissioners find it not cause enough to quit driving when they have been drinking, and then cry a lot when they are picked up by the Highway Patrol. What a fine example for our young people.

And then when Walt Hecox (who I enjoy reading very much) always has to mention his favorite "wheat squeezings" in his column and even rewards himself with extra serving after a good day, then probably gets in his car and drives himself home.

If we put all that acreage of wheat and grapes used to make alcohol we could probably stamp out starvation in our lifetime — to say nothing of the alcoholism and deaths we could eliminate. Let's get our values straight and put first things first.

Low cost housing?

Editor, The Times:

So the City of Livermore finally has "low-cost, low-income" housing! First, what makes it low cost? Do you honestly consider $189 to $247 as low cost? For the owners, Livermore city officials, HUD, and FHA to consider them low cost according to "fair market rents" in order to justify their existence is indeed a laugh. A survey of comparable apartment complexes in Livermore shows that there are at least 12 other units that rent for less than our new so-called "low cost" units. And, in Denver, Colorado (whose consumer price index is, by the way, essentially identical to ours), a nonprofit apartment complex was opened last year where apartments rent from $118 to $158. I consider that low cost!

Second, let's take up low income. Who, by the way, sets the maximum on earned salary to justify rental of the units? Nine thousand dollars a year is certainly low-income these days, but what about the secretary or technician working for our biggest employer in the valley who takes home $400 to $600 a month and has two or three dependents? I consider that low income! How could that family possible afford to pay the rent and utilities on one of those units and then afford food and clothing. (By the way, the units are so far away from any grocery store that one must maintain an automobile — and insurance — just to live there.)

If Livermore wants just another expensive luxury apartment complex, then Livermore Gardens is appropriate. But don't call it low-cost. If that's supposed to be a joke, we low-income people aren't laughing. But We Do Vote!

Flags vandalized

Editor, The Times:

Vandalism is a topic that has seen many words in print recently.

It is difficult to understand why vandals enjoy their destruction.

A recent incident of vandalism occurred at the Allied Broker's Real Estate office on Hopyard Road.

The Allied Broker's management purchased two Bicentennial flags which they proudly displayed to all incoming traffic on Hopyard Road. Vandals ripped the flags down and also smashed the real estate sign.

Allied Broker's bought two more Bicentennial flags and this time placed them on the roof. Over the week-end they were attacked again, this time the flags were ripped from the poles.

It's a shame that a business who is trying to put it's best foot forward in civic duty, is being harassed by non-thinking, feeling "citizens."

My sincerest apologies go out to Allied Broker's, and I sincerely appreciate their efforts toward making the Pleasanton Bicentennial a more meaningful celebration.

Ken Mercer, chairman
Pleasanton Bicentennial Commission

round the town

She has been a good and faithful companion throughout all these years, putting up with my assorted shortcomings, tolerating my little outbursts of temper or whatever, and it dawned on me that I had never really let her know my true feelings.

"You've been a good old girl," I declared in a burst of passion on the patio. "You've kept your figure, your temper and your place. A man can't ask for anymore."

Then I patted her on the backside and tossed her a small piece of my Sunday sandwich.

"You talk to that dog sometimes as though she were human," the other member of the household said, joining us on the patio for a little repast. "I don't know what you'll do when it comes time to put her to sleep."

Put her to sleep! A crude euphemism that does little to hide man's platonic relationship with those creatures who must rely on us for food, and love, and even life. Put Ritzie to sleep. The mere thought of it sent chills down the spine. For one thing, I had never quite thought of that moment arriving, for Ritzie and me.

"She is going on 13, you know, and that's getting on, for a dog." She was right, of course, but I had simply refused to accept old age, in this most beloved of friends. Perhaps, I must confess, it is because Ritzie and I have sort of advanced through age and wisdom together. If some smartie pants had come forward to suggest that "We ought to consider putting him to sleep. He IS getting on, you know," I would have been somewhat shocked. Not that I plan to live forever. And I always admire those who live the good, rich life, and then are suddenly taken by heart failure some night, preferably on a Monday, so as not to screw up the family's following weekend.

"He lived a good life and then went quickly," everyone says. "That's the way he would have wanted it."

Now, I for one have no proof that this is the way he would have wanted it. There are no records of any interviews with the dearly departed to establish that they welcomed the grim reaper, at any age, and whatever hour.

Personally, I am at the crest of life, the zenith of my relationship with Mother Earth, and all her creatures. I came to this realization quite suddenly, just the other week in fact. I am on the good side of fifty, the kids have all departed hither yon, I have two pink slips free and clear, a mortgage that is quite tolerable and a wife who is even more so. What more can a man ask?

What more indeed?

"Do you realize that for almost half a century I have been massaging my hammer toes as per medical counsel in the hope of bringing those bent digits into conformity with mankind's standard?" I announced just the other night.

"What on earth inspired that little speech?" she asked. I was hoping she would ask, for it allowed me the opportunity to declare my freedom from that half century of slavery.

"I have concluded that, since my toes have not changed shape one whit in all these years, they are as they are, and that's it. I do not intend to fight these stupid toes for another 50 years."

This burst of freedom quickly sped from my brain to other parts of the system. The nose bent eastward in that baseball game of World War II vintage, and a subject of some face-lifting concern ever since, can now stand as is. Forevermore.

The receding hair line that was a constant threat to my romantic prowess through several delightful encounters and one great triumph, can now go ahead and recede all it wants.

"A man on the bright side of fifty need no longer concern himself with the shape of his toes, or the length of his hair," I declared, wishing right away I had kept quiet.

"Now that you've made all these fascinating discoveries about yourself, Mr. Wonderful, would it be all right if I put my knees in your back and went off to sleep? I've got the nervous jumps again."

Ah yes, the system does collect a short circuit or three, along life's trail. Nerves jangle, joints creak, and the stomach rarely retains at midnight the high regard for that meal received with such promise just four hours earlier. But those are the small prices we pay for the realization that we have climbed to the top of the mountain, and are now at the crest, needing only to make our leisure way along that downward trail to complete the journey.

"I think I shall take the dog for a brisk run in the park," I announced.

"That would be nice," she replied. "But take it easy on that 'brisk' business. Ritzie isn't able to run in this kind of heat anymore, and you aren't exactly in shape for a try at any records."

But we care not for records, my old friend and I. It is enough that we are able to walk together, geared to the pace that flatters us both, aided by a downhill slope that comes only to those who are satisfied they have reached the hilltop of life.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

There is no sound more alarming to the average citizen of these United States than that of a siren at close range; a spine tingling cacaphony, high pitched, yet deep throated with no sign of shrillness, a treble pandomonium which always means trouble for someone.

I could hardly know while talking to Skeeter on the telephone that the strident voice of the siren which came through the receiver and sounded as though it was parked in our living room, would find its way into this space before a week had passed.

Nor could I know that screaming harbinger of misfortune would be heard in faraway Oneonta, New York and bring pain and considerable sadness to a 12 year old boy who lives there.

William F. Sherman is 12 years old, a sensitive lad from what I know of him, which is very little, and one capable of forming deep and binding friendships.

Until six months ago two of his best friends were Vincent and Mary Dirvin, who lived not far from his home in Oneonta and whom he visited almost every day.

They played the part of grandparents in residence, more or less, listening to his stories and tales of his boyish adventures, feeding him the cookies Mary baked and doing all the things grandparents do to make a little boy happy.

When the couple moved six months ago so they could be closer to their daughter, Joan, and her husband, Dr. Robert Steiner, a physician practicing in Pleasanton who lives across the street from us in San Ramon, William was as close to heartbroken as a youngster can get.

There was a sort of reverse homesickness in the Sherman house back in Oneonta . Young William spoke often of his friends and pined for them so deeply that his parents paid for an airline ticket and sent him out to Pleasanton to see them.

There was a joyous reunion at 2323 Santa Rita Road when young William arrived and for a few days in early summer he made new friends, saw new sights and became greatly interested in the Century House which was located in Bicentennial Park directly across the street from the Dirvin residence.

Matter of fact young William became so interested in the Century House that he laid a few bricks in the patio one day in early June when Pleasanton citizens gathered for a work party there.

Little boys cannot visit foster grandparents forever, and the time came for young William to return to Oneonta and his parents.

Not long after his return the sound of that siren came screeching through the open window and traveled along the telephone line into my ears at our Pleasanton office. A sound that traveled farther than Pleasanton. It was heard clearly and sadly in Oneonta, New York. This is how young Bill felt about it. The words are his, complete with some errors.

Dear Mrs Dirvin: I am verry distressed and in a slight state of schock ever since I heard the totally unexpected news of Mr. Dirvin's death. When I gave the message to my mother and saw her write some things down I became excited thinking that you were comming to visit. The news hit me when I was off gaurd and least (excuse the large writing, but I'm trying to write well. I'm having trouble writing because I do it so fast.)...expected it. For a moment my body froze as I thought it couldn't be true. Now, as I wright this letter to you I have accepted the fact and am trying to keep my head up. However, I will never get over the fact that he left us only six months after you moved.

I feel proud to be the last Oneonton who visited you before it happened. I also am glad to have memories of the wonderful things Mr Dirvin did for me and made my life happier. I'm not going to say how he made the world a better place to live, because that is not true. But for those who knew him, he created joy and made thier lives just a little more liveable. My philosophy is that a man who strives to make an image for himself finds no joy. The true happy man is who lives his life and strives to the service of others. My idea of Mr. Dirvin is a man who lived his life to enjoy and willingly devote his services to aid a friend. Also an intelligent man with perfection his goal.

Part II ——To take your mind off the terrible occourance I'd like to hank you again for letting me come to visit. My cactus are doing fine and I've added some to my collection. I'm presently engaged in reading " The Birdman of Alcatraz". Also I have my name in for "Alcatraz Island Prison". As you can see I'm following up another intrest stemming from my trip. I think my trip out West has made me a more interesting person. Miss Vrooman (?) said she is going to bring me some cacti from florida. She is letting us use her wok and I'm berry excited about cooking in it.

Part III——Oneonta is fine. Frank Perreta took me on a tour of the Star (lousey pen) office. Dial a bus is running fine now and I take it a lot. No final dicision has been made about tearing old Main down. Our summer school class is putting on a Bicentennial show. How's Century House? Please don't let the though enter your mind of stopping to send me those slippings. I enjoy reading them.

Epelouge——I hope you come to visit soon. Mabe after you go to Philly? I offer you my deepest condolences and offer my services in any way I can. After all the things you and Mr. Dirvin have done for me I feel shamed since this terrible thing. I hope to see you real soon.

Death is but a way.
That our Father summonses
us to live with him
in eternal happieness
The only way for a mans soul to gain this is for the surving mourners to please remember this lay there hearts A—rest Your friend, William F. Sherman

You see, folks, that siren which I heard over the telephone was the one that signalled it was time for Vincent Dirvin's trip to the other side of the mountain. I thought you would like to know how young Bill felt when he heard the news.

For Wednesday, Aug. 13, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency to be wasteful with funds entrusted to you today, because you don't investigate closely before investing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Those at home will be extra-sensitive today. Take care you're not the one to cause hurt feelings.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's not a good work day for you. Your mind is not on what you're doing. Your mistakes will have to be corrected tomorrow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't give in to the kids too easily today. Not only will it cost you money, it will restrict your personal freedom.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Feelings are intense at home today. It's easier to give in on minor points to avoid locking horns with someone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be moody today because you won't speak out on something bothering you. Try not to hold things in.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't let friends demand too much of your time today. It'll end up costing you more than you intended to spend.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep your head at all costs. Your dignity and reputation could suffer greatly if you lose your cool around the wrong people.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's best to have well-thought-out plans today, or you'll find yourself trying to escape from doing things you'd rather not.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Follow your instincts to be a loner today. Being around crowds will only wear your nerves to a frazzle.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You won't dignify yourself by being stubborn. Failing to see the other person's point of view could be your downfall today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Trying to spread yourself too thin today in your work will only result in a lot of aggravation.

Your Birthday

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Victor Mollo's book is written for rubber bridge players. Therefore, when he asks, "What should declarer play from dummy at trick one?" the answer is obvious.

Declarer should play a low spade. Once this play is made South can win the trick with his ace and take an immediate club finesse. If the finesse loses, that queen of spades will still be in dummy to stop the suit. South will be sure of four clubs, three hearts, one spade and one diamond for a total of nine tricks.

In match point duplicate there is a real problem facing declarer. He is in a normal contract since almost every one else will open one notrump and play in the notrump game.

The queen of spades play from dummy becomes an attempt to score an overtrick and overtricks are what win match-point tournaments.

Of course, if South knows that West never leads from kings (there still are such people playing bridge), he will make the rubber bridge players play of the low spade. If South is a natural pessimist, he will also play safe for his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Hawaii wants to know if the rules of bridge allow a player to pass when his partner opens with a forcing two-bid.

This question comes up quite often. The answer is that the rules of bridge allow you to make any legal call when it is your turn to bid and a pass is always a legal call.

At the same time it is seldom advisable to pass when your partner forces. He may have his bid and you may be missing a game or even a slam.

Danville trio to play major role

MORAGA — Although generally thought of as an Alameda County circuit, the presence of the East Bay Athletic League will be felt on both sides of the line of scrimmage during the tenth annual Contra Costa — Alameda County All-Star football game Friday night in Fremont's Tak Fudenna Stadium.

Three players from the EBAL's two northernmost schools will play for the Contra Costa elite, punfully tabbed the "CC Riders."

San Ramon, which played the spoilers role during the final week of last season, will contribute lineman Rich Wright and wide receiver Ted Athan, while cellar-dwelling Monte Vista sends defender Casey Merrill.

Co-coach Lou Guida of Richmond's Harry Ells High is counting on the stocky Wright to start at offensive guard, despite a thigh pull suffered in a recent practice session.

Merrill, a last minute injury-replacement addition to the Contra Costa roster will be a first string defensive end.

For a player from a highly unsuccesful team to step in and earn a starting spot as an afterthought is obviously quite an accomplishment.

"He was in shape and has looked good; he just stepped right in," said Guida, whose primary responsibility during the two-a-day workouts has been the linemen.

Athan will not start, but should be interesting to watch as he takes his share of playing time.

Ed Hall, co-coach from De La Salle, said yesterday that the 5-8 former Wolf would be getting a sizeable amount of game action, which should come as welcome news to Livermore grad Ron Foreman, who has chosen this game as a one-day vendetta against Athan, who embarrased him in last season's 33-18 SR win over the Cowboys.

Friday, Foreman said that Athan would "not get behind me once... I'll knock him on his butt first."

Should the pair meet Friday night — with Alameda in a zone and Athan coming off the bench it's not certain — Athan yesterday professed to be ready.

"He's good," Athan said of the 5-10 Foreman, "probably the best I faced all last season. And playing against a zone will be tougher." "But," he added, "I'm not about to change anything I do."

Completing his critique of his challenger, Ted puzzled, "I don't understand why Alameda's playing him on defense. I thought he was better as a receiver."

Guida, attempting to put the whole matter of one-game rivalry into perspective, marveled, "They must really be cocky if the 29th man (Foreman) is making noise."

Athan plans to attend Diablo Valley College this fall, which could be a mixed blessing. While the Vikings appear to be on the rise this season, Ted will have plenty of competition from the rest of the receiver-rich DVC team.

The Vikes will be losing JC superstar Ron Turner and two-way sensation Anthony Green but will have letterman Wally Yuhre among a gang of other prospects.

Yuhre, along with former CC Rider quarterback Paul Sommer and second-line DVC end Danny Ornellas, watched yesterday's workout at St. Mary's College.

BECKY CANESSA STRAINS FOR RETURN IN HER MATCH WITH LISA SPARKS YESTERDAY.

Pleasanton Racquet Club junior tournament continues this morning at Amador.

Pleasanton Jr. tennis continues

The Fifth Annual Pleasanton Junior Tennis Tournament, in every aspect may possibly be the most rugged in the tourney's history.

Second round pairings will continue today from 8 a.m. on. The Pleasanton Recreation Department and Racquet Club are co-sponsoring the tourney.

Drawing over 80 area netters from Livermore, San Ramon, Dublin and Pleasanton, Chuck Bazan, tourney director commented, "It's really going to be interesting this year. The entrants in the boys-12 and 16 divisions are all outstanding."

In yesterday's boys-12 first round, favorites Leno Mary, Mark Hiczman, Jamie Greig, Richie Gottsman and Scott Perry all won decisively.

In today's pairings Mary will face Lutz; Hiczman will take on Dave Reynoldson; Greig and Scott Warman will meet; and Gottsman and Perry will clash in a tough one.

In the 14 male class, Dave Reinking, a 6-1, 6-1 winner over Tim Burks, will clash with Dave Crall, who aced out Bill Rogers, 6-0, 6-0. The two will meet in a semi-final match.

The boys-16 division, always a tough bracket, will continue throughout today. Mike Crow, who pulled out a 6-7, 6-3, 6-2 win over Mike Lack, will take on the winner of the Athernon-Schall match.

Meanwhile, Matt Anger and Scott Williford, two favorites to win the 16 title will meet head-on today. Anger won over Bernie Belzer, 6-2, 6-2; and Williford staved off Pfieser, 6-0, 6-2.

Dave Finn, a threat to win the 16, has yet to play.

Andy Finn and Steve Williford will lead today's boys-18 pairings.

In girls-12 action, a tight class, Jay Anger, who blanked Garrigan 6-0, 6-0, will meet Velure, also a 6-0, 6-0 winner. Belzer and Boggini victors over Robinson and Martin will also clash today.

Mendy Goddesman and Kathy Lyon lead the girls-14 bracket following yesterday's initial round. The two will meet today.

Goddesman defeated Kapp 6-0, 6-0; and Lyon beat Loveland 6-0, 6-0.

Mendy Morrell takes on S. Dacy, and A. Athenour clashes with S. Schall in second round action.

Though the girls-16 matches were not available at presstime in four early matches, M. Schall defeated Devaney 6-1, 6-2; Drummond won over Commuzi, 6-1, 6-2; Roach beat Rocerto 6-0, 6-3; and Cross took a 6-0, 6-1 match from Hoppner.

The grils-18 bracket was tossed out due to the simple fact that no one signed up.

Coming up next week is the USLTA-Pleasanton Junior Tennis Tournament. Over 300 entrants are scheduled to partake on the Amador Valley campus.

Finals Friday are set for 9-12. No matches will be played Thursday.

AL BROWN HAD a great fishing and vacation trip in the Lake Almanor and Davis Lake area. He says Davis Lake was especially productive, with good catches of rainbow and lake trout. Although the best months there are June and July, deep trolling now is worth the effort, Al states. He suggests a minimum depth of 17 feet, on down to 30 or more.

CALIFORNIA CONGRESSMEN Glenn Anderson and George Danielson have joined the ranks of a number of congressmen demanding mandatory prison terms for persons convicted of specific firearms crimes Anderson's bill is HR-4361 and Danielson's is HR-5379. These bills should get your support!

Mandatory sentencing, a reformation of plea bargaining, a more rigorous parole system, and a reduction of legal latitude in dealing with violent crime, are the needs today. This simply means enforcement of the many laws already passed, instead of new ones.

A new bill, AB-2426, authored by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, is typical of those being introduced and aimed at restricting your right to own a gun. Such laws will not reduce crime: see the preceding paragraph! Sieroty's bill will require, according to a legislative analyst, the following:

1. Beginning July 1, 1977, the possession of "handguns" by private persons would be outlawed. Violation would be a felony punishable by imprisonment in the state prison up to five (5) years.

2. "Handgun" means any pistol, revolver or firearm capable of being concealed upon the person and includes any ammunition which can be used only in a handgun.

3 Between Jan 1 and July 1, of 1977, handgun owners may turn in their handguns and be compensated as to fair market value as of that date, (what would be the market value when there would be no market?) and:

a. No person shall be compensated for more than 10 handguns or more than $1,500.

b. Nothing in this law shall be construed to create any right to just compensation. (In other words, you forfeit your private property rights.)

4. Antiques are not excluded except that "inoperable handguns" may be possessed providing they are "permanently and irreversibly incapable of being discharged." (You have forfeited your right to just compensation and if you want to keep your antiques you can destroy their value by making them "irreversibly inoperable.")

5. Only the police, certain security police, the military and "Authorized Pistol Clubs" may possess handguns.

a. "Pistol Club" means a group of 10 or more persons formed for the purpose of using handguns and other firearms on a target range at a fixed location having been issued a license by the Department of Justice.

b The County Board of Supervisors must pass a resolution authorizing the issuance of the license.

c. Only authorized "purchasing representatives" could purchase firearms for the club.

d. Not more than one (1) handgun per member would be permitted.

e. Satisfactory security for storage of the handguns must be provided (vaults, alarm systems, etc.)

f. The location of the pistol club must be owned by the Club or its members or be under valid lease for not less than two (2) years.

g. A minimum of $500,000 damage insurance coverage would be required for the Club and not less than $50,000 damage coverage for each member per handgun owned by the Club.

6. Only government agencies would be authorized to deal in handguns. The county sheriff could sell to the members of his department and to pistol clubs, local police agencies to their officers, and the Dept. of General Services to authorized state personnel.

7 Only "purchasing representatives" may purchase handguns for pistol clubs and each club may not have more than one (1) purchasing representative for each 50 members.

8 Purchasing representative for pistol clubs and others who may purchase handguns (police-military) must be licensed

A LONG TIME COMING — It took them 17 years but PG&E's Livermore Gas Department finally compiled one million man hours of on - the - job safety. Walter D. Skinner, left, foreground, presents two safety certificates and a PG&E hard hat with "17" to commemorate the occasion to Arthur M. Patterson, general foreman and head of the department. Besides most of the employees of the department on hand for the presentation, also appearing were Edward F. Sibley (behind Patterson), vice - president, gas operations for PG&E; Cecil A. Beebe, Livermore area manager, and Frank J. Ervin, right, Mission District manaaer.

A million-plus hours

PG&E establishes new safety record

It took 17 years, but a small, proud group of Pacific Gas and Electric Company's Livermore Gas "T&D" Department has compiled a safety record that likely will prove difficult to match.

Members of this group have recorded more than a million working hours during that 17-year span without a day of lost time from their jobs because of injury.

The Transmission and Distribution men set their record from Jan 1, 1958, to Dec. 21, 1974

As of Aug. 1, the department's record remained intact at 1,036,122 man-hours.

"This is a rather remarkable record, considering the size of the department," said Cecil A. Beebe, PG&E's Livermore Valley area manager.

"Workers in the gas department here really haven't had a serious injury since it was officially created in 1958. Safety is one thing we emphasize, along with courtesy to customers. It pays off in good wor-king habits, improved service , and effeciency in operation."

There are 40 employes presently working in the gas department. PG&E recently staged a brief ceremony honoring the department with two million man-hour awards, one from the company and another from the American Gas Association.

The oldest member of the department is service dispatcher Don Thompson of Livermore who was assigned to the local office in 1951, before the department officially was formed.

Arthur M. Patterson, with 35 years service with PG&E and 11 years in Livermore, is the general foreman and head of the department.

Bill Digges of Livermore, a 25-year employe, is acting general foreman since Patterson suffered a heart attack in March. He's still recuperating.

Other members with long service in the gas department include Ralph Vigars, 15 years; John Estes, 12 years; Keith Anderson, 12 years; Pat Gilmore, 13 years; Harold Choate, 12 years; Adelbert Penrose, 11 years; and Bill Dolin, 10 years.

Penrose, a light-crew foreman, has logged 35 years with PG&E.

The newest member of the department is John Nunez, 25, who joined the firm last month. All but Vigars live in Livermore. He resides in Pleasanton.

"The men are rather proud of that record because it wasn't easy to achieve," added Beebe. "Not only is it a small department, but most of the people are involved in heavy work, such as excavation, and are constantly driving, which means they are always exposed to accidents."

The T&D gas department provides manpower for construction projects such as underground work, gas pipline installation, gas leak repairs. response to customer calls for a leak or appliance service, relighting pilot lights and installation of residential and commercial meters.

The men operate vehicles ranging from half-ton service or pickup trucks to two-ton heavy duty trucks.

The T&D gas department started with only five men. As the Livermore-Pleasanton-San Ramon Valley area developed, however, their work load increased and more men and equipment were added.

At the peak of the valley's growth in 1970 the gas department employed 60 men.

American families shrinking in size

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The shrinking American family is forcing U.S. industry to "think small" to survive.

The Census Bureau reports that the size of the average U.S. household dipped below three persons in 1974 for the first time in history — the exact figure is 2.97 persons — and the trend toward small families is expected to continue.

Why?

—Women of child-bearing age claim they want smaller families. "When married women today are asked how many children they expect to have in their lifetime, those under 25 years old say they believe they will have just enough for zero population growth," the Census Bureau says.

—People are living longer and the elderly aren't moving in with their children. They keep their own homes or apartments.

—Young people are moving away from home after graduation from college. The child who used to stay home until marriage is leaving the nest earlier.

These people will still need the goods and services produced by industry. But they will need them in a different shape.

Smaller households mean smaller houses. Smaller automobiles. Smaller packages of food. Smaller appliances. Different types of entertainment and amusement.

Some of the changes are apparent already, caused, in part, by the pressure of recession. Rising gasoline prices and shrinking budgets have prompted Detroit to put new emphasis on the small car. "No-frills" houses provide a bright spot in an otherwise gloomy construction picture.

Investment counselor Jesse Siff says industry is going to have to change its thinking even further or get left behind.

Business and government spokesmen tend to discount reports of entire industries going out of business because of disappearing markets, particularly in the area of products designed for babies and children.

"There will be every bit as many infants, but they will be spread out over more households," said Herbert Zeltner, senior vice president of Kenyon & Eckhardt, Inc., a New York based advertising agency.

The government has been studying changing buying habits in connection with its revision of the Consumer Price Index. The final index isn't due out until 1977, but a spokesman for the Bureau of Labor Statistics said preliminary findings indicate "people are buying the same things they always did, but in different proportions. It's a gradual change."

Here is a look at what that gradual change might mean to some key industries:

HOUSING

Most of the experts agree that houses will get smaller for several reasons. Building and land costs have skyrocketed. More women entering the work force have neither the time nor the desire to take care of a large house. Smaller families need less space.

Zeltner said the living space of the future may be the cluster home, with a group of individually owned houses sharing common walls and some appliances in an extension of the current townhouse facility. "Why should each family have the expense of a complete kitchen and laundry unit?" Zeltner said, suggesting instead that homes of the future might have small kitchen appliances, washers and dryers and share large ovens and cleaning facilities.

Siff said there will be an increasing use of new materials and new techniques — some of them adapted from research being done in connection with the space program to determine the effects of living at very close quarters.

Siff and others said they believed that the size of the average single-family home has peaked and will start to decline, but the American Homebuilders Association wasn't so sure.

Association economist Bob Sheehan said he believed the demand for the three-bedroom and larger home would continue. "Additional space is not all that expensive," he said. He said the people born in the postwar baby boom are just reaching their 30s. "They're getting married. They're having children."

AUTOMOBILES

Economists inside and outside the auto industry agree that the small car is here to stay. They are less certain about the fate of the large car.

Siff predicted that in 20 years, very large cars "will be an anachronism, maybe even a collector's item."

Norm Crandall, market research director of Ford Motor Co., said he believed large cars werm here to stay. But he said that(the cars would become "more fuel efficient and what we cill more passenger efficient" by providing more interior space while cutting overall dimensions, a trend already apparent in some 1975 models.

While the smaller household will mean "the need for hauling bodies is reduced," (rising incomes, due in part to more working wives and fewer family members to support, will increase the ability to pay, Crandall added.

FOOD

Rising food prices, the growing consumer movement and demands for natural ingredients already have put a dent in the convenience food industry. Zeltner said he believes there will be even more changes.

Until 1973, he said, there was a trend toward "hyper-convenience," the fancier and more expensive the better. The recession changed all that, he said, "and my guess is that long after the recession passes, the resistance will be built in. People won't spend huge amounts of money in return for a marginal increase in appeal."

He said smaller households will require smaller packages. "We need to develop a more flexible control of unitizing (enabling people to use enough of a product for one meal and save the rest) without overdoing package expense."

CCC cardiac surgery hit by health planning group

By BRUCE ADAMS
Lesher News Bureau

WALNUT CREEK--The county's Comprehensive Health Planning Association has accepted a report critical of the growth of cardiac surgery in the county.

The report was accepted Monday at a meeting of the association's board of directors at John Muir Hospital.

Recently Mt. Diablo Hospital, Concord opened the county's first cardiac care unit where special diagnostic procedures, (cardiac catherization), and surgery, (cardiac bypass), are performed.

The association's report said Mt. Diablo Hospital's programs were "inappropriate, given the excess capacity that already exists in the San Francisco Bay Area and uncertain projections for future demand and need for services."

William Hopkins, chairman of the committee writing the report, said "Clearly there's not enough volume (in the demand for cardiac bypass surgery) to warrant the services we have in Contra Costa County."

Peter Kunkel a cardiologist from Mt. Diablo Hospital, said the other Bay Area hospitals were out of the area, causing "patients and families to go away from home for a frightening experience."

"It's a heavy burden on families to stay in San Francisco or Palo Alto," he said.

He said the larger hospitals, such as Stanford Hospital in Palo Alto and Pacific Medical Center in San Francisco, had the advantage in research and teaching facilities.

"But at the small community hospitals, the human trouth is the quality of the individual effort," he said.

Arthur Seltzer, cardiologist from Pacific Medical Center, said, there was no need for increased facilities in the Bay Area.

"The smaller facilities tend to over use the procedures to build up the volume," he said.

Board member John Kaufman said, "Programs like yours, (Pacific Medical Center), proliferate cardiac catherization laboratories."

Seltzer said proliferation was a problem in all areas of medicine. He used the example of a small hospital in Santa Cruz purchasing expensive neurological equipment several years ago.

"It's not only the expense, but anybody with a headache will now get a brain scan," he said.

The report did not give specific cost figures, but Joe Hafey, executive director of the association, said "economically, it's not worth the while."

He said Kaiser hospitals in the nine-county Bay Area which serve 25 per cent of the population don't have any special cardiac facilities.

Cynthia Crawford, of the county association's staff, said direct cost figures were hard to come by since increases were passed on in the form of higher insurance premiums spread across the entire medical cost spectrum.

Rolf Sommerhaug, head of Mt. Diablo's cardiac unit, said the larger hospitals added to the cost.

"They rely on residents, and the first thing residents usually do is order a lot of test," he said.

The association's report doesn't carry any legal authority. Comprehensive Health Planning agencies serve an advisory role, but pending state legislation will give agencies the power to regulate growth.

Patrol agents send illegal aliens home

PLEASANTON — Chief patrol agent Herbert E. Walsh announces the local Border Patrol agents sent almost 5,000 illegal aliens back to Mexico last month.

Livermore Sector agents, covering the 49 Northern California counties, arrested a total of 5,246 people in July who had entered the country without the proper visas. That was 169 over July of 1974 and 985 less than last month's total. Three-quarters of those arrested were employed, earning wages of up to $7 an hour.

Agents of the Livermore Station, covering Alameda, northern Santa Clara, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Trinity, Humboldt and Del Norte Counties, arrested 465 aliens, of whom 85 per cent were working at the time of arrest.

Although it is illegal for unauthorized foreigners to be holding jobs, there is no punishment to businesses who employ illegal aliens. Border Patrol agents stalk the Mexican and Canadian borders to the country as well as spot-checking in farm fields and industry in an attempt to round up all those who have managed to slip past the border.
